Data Protection

Due to the impending changes to data protection law with the implementation of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) which comes into effect on 25 May 2018, the Club is having to review its data handling processes. Part of this review entails data subjects (Club members) having to make a positive indication of their willingness to opt in and share their data rather than the previous regime whereby data statements asked you to tick the box if you didn't want to be included. Now all data subjects must positively indicate that they want to be included. Accordingly, you will notice the two short statements with tick boxes on the renewal form next to the spaces for your contact details.

The first of these asks you to tick a box to allow the club to store and use your data for Club purposes.

As well as using your data to contact you to advise you of club events and other associated matters necessary to allow the club to function, this would also include the release of your contact data (phone numbers and email addresses) to other members on request, to allow any competitions you enter to be successfully managed and ties to be arranged.

The second box and short statement is to allow the club to share your contact data with the Club Professional, Sandy Aird, to enable him to advise you of course availability and to send you his monthly newsletter. This newsletter may contain golfing and equipment promotions directly from Sandy. The contact information we share with Sandy will only be shared with the publisher of his monthly newsletter and not with any other third parties.

In order for the club to continue to operate properly to serve its members, and to receive Sandy's newsletter, it is important that you consider the above information carefully and hopefully agree to share your contact data.
